THE DAILY SENTINEL.

WM. E PELL, Editor.

WEDNESDAY, NOVEMBER 15, 1865.

OUR TERMS.

THE SENTINEL is issued every morning (Sunday excepted) at the following rates:

For six months,	$5,00
For one month	1,00
" two months	2,00

Our terms are invariably in advance. The scarcity of money however, obliges us to say to our friends, that responsible and prompt persons who desire the Sentinel need not delay sending us their names at once, who can send us the Cash in a short time. The money may be sent us by the Rail Road Conductors or the Express Company.

Subscribers, etc.

A number of our friends owe us for subscription and advertising. We need the amount and will be obliged to our friends if they will send it to us by Express or by safe hands. The members of the Legislature will afford a good chance.

WILMINGTON PAPERS.—We have received no Wilmington papers since Saturday last. We learn that the Sentinel fails often to reach Wilmington in time. We never fail to put our mail on the Cars on the morning of publication. We hope that those concerned in the mail arrangements will see to it.

American Union Commission.

We publish to-day at the request of the Agent, an article briefly explaining the objects of this institution. We are not sufficiently acquainted with its objects or practical workings to express an opinion either favorable or unfavorable to it. During the war, the U. S. Christian Commission did a good work among the Federal soldiers—and while the benevolent objects of the American Union Commission must receive the sanction of all good men, yet as a permenant institution operating through agents for the instruction of our children, not reared among us, its practical utility may be questionable. We do not design by this remark to prejudice the institution or its agents, among our people. We have no prejudice against mankind because of their birth or the land of their nativity, or even against color. We estimate men entirely by what they are. Let our people in all these matters, try them.—"Prove all things and hold fast to that which is good."

FRANKLIN COUNTY.—We have been waiting patiently to hear what our friends have done in Franklin, in the late election. The people of the State wish to know what Franklin has done.—Nor have we any official account from Granville. If our friends in Franklin and Granville have yet done voting, we would be obliged to them to let us hear the result.

CHANGE.—Editors who copy the last advertisement of the Raleigh and Gaston Rail Road, "Change of Time," will please alter it as it appears in our columns to-day.

The Returns.

The returns come in so slowly, some days must elapse before the exact vote can be ascertained for Governor. The public mind however is settling down in the conviction that Mr. Worth is certainly elected. The members elect to Congress cannot be determined for several days.—Messrs Clark and Turner are certainly elected. Returns are in favor of the election of Messrs. Brown and Walkup. Beyond the Ronake Dr. Speed is ahead. In the Mountain District, the contest is said to be with Messrs. Gaither and Jones.

NAMELESS.—We are indebted to the publishers, Messrs. W. B. Smith & Co., of this city, for the new novel from the pen of Mrs. Downing, of Charlotte. We have heard the work highly spoken of, and will embrace an early opportunity to notice it more fully. The accomplished authoress merits the favorable consideration of the people, and we hope the publishers will meet with a ready sale. Send in your orders. The price is $2.

We find it currently reported, in several of the leading and most reliable Northern journals, that the President, with the entire approval of most of the leading Republicans, will add the crowning act of mercy to his noble and magnificent policy, by very soon either pardoning or releasing on parole Mr Jefferson Davis. The representations are all to the effect that the idea of trying Mr. Davis, either by court martial or by a civil tribunal, has been abandoned. It is much to the credit of the Northern people that, with very few exceptions, they no longer thirst for the blood of this unfortunate gentleman, whose position was more elevated, but whose "crime" was the same as that of thousands who have been pardoned. His long confinement has softened the hearts of many of those who were at first most greedy for his blood.

If no more blood is shed in consequence of the late civil war, we shall stand before the world not only the greatest, but the most magnanimous of modern nations. President Andrew Johnson, when he can announce that no more political prisoners languish in our prisons, will be remembered in history as the great and good man who restored the greatness and peace of his country, without having caused the tear of a widow or orphan to flow by the death of a political offender.

Looking to the course of the President, we believe he will very soon release the last of the unhappy gentlemen whose misfortune it was to be prominent during the late civil war. Of the multitudes who were in prison some months ago, very few are now confined. We can recollect at this time none others than Messrs. Davis, Clay, Seddon, Mallory, Burton Harrison and Lubbock. Each day there are hundreds of petitions, from the people of every nation, praying for the pardon of Mr. Davis. Messrs. Harrison and Lubbock filled subordinate positions near Mr. Davis, and the only surprise is that it was deemed necessary to imprison them at all.

Messrs. Seddon and Mallory were Cabinet officers, and their temporary confinement does not surprise us so much. In all the private relations of life, these gentlemen are universally esteemed for their many good qualities. The whole life of Mr. Seddon has been adorned by all the virtues which could grace the gentleman, scholar, and statesman, and his kindness of heart is proverbial among those who know him. We are assured that his release may be speedily looked for.

More than six months have now elapsed since the collapse of the Confederacy. The people of the South, with an unparalleled quiet in history, have re assumed their duties as citizens of the United States, and nowhere is the supremacy of the Federal laws and constitution contested. This happy result is attributable in no small degree to the humane policy of the Government; and the fit consummation of that wise policy will be the speedy fulfillment of the rumors and prophecies which reach us from all quarters of the pardon or release upon certain conditions of Mr. Jefferson Davis.—Richmond Times.

What the Northern Elections Decide.

Before the election in New York took place, we presented our views of the positions of the two parties, and published and commented upon the leading features of their several platforms. We selected New York, the Empire State, as illustrating the politics of the whole North.—Comparing the platforms of the respective parties, we failed to discover any difference in the principles and policy enunciated by them. On the contrary, their identity in these respects was so marked, that we pronounced the contest to be not one for principles, but solely for the spoils and expressed the opinion that the result, which ever party should succeed would be a triumphant vindication of the President's policy.

That election, and elections in other Northern States have taken place, and the result is a crowning victory to the party known as the Republican or Union party. Scarcely has the smoke of battle cleared away before the leading New York organs of the two parties, that professed to be contending for the most sacred principles, come out and frankly avow that the result decides no principle, but simply and solely who shall enjoy the spoils.

The New York Times says the defeat of the Democrats "implies no hostility to the principles they have proclaimed, but only distrust of their professions. If the Democrats were serious in their professions they have no reason to regret this result. It will give fresh and powerful support to the policy they profess to admire. It will strengthen the President in his position, and give him renewed assurances of popular support in the great work he has so auspiciously begun."

The New York News says: "Between their platforms the oldest politicians could not distinguish the difference; and the antecedents of the candidates were as much alike as the platforms upon which they stood. The contest was, therefore, one for place and not for principle."

The only practical result is to continue for a while longer the Republican or Union organization. Pending this contest we said that we saw no reason why the really patriotic men embraced in these two organizations should not have united in the support of the President's policy. At the end of the contest we repeat the remark.—Richmond Whig.

The Sort of Advice the Negroes Get in Texas.

The National Intelligencer of Saturday, says:

We have reliable information from Washington county, Texas, a heavy cotton growing region that in the extremity of the cotton harvest, planters are offering half the crop for the picking. This will astonish those who remember that the picking in old times was seldom thought profitable if it cost as much as one cent per pound.

From the same and a trustworthy source we have the following, which sounds very unlike the speeches which the judicious but earnest General Howard is making daily in the South, and is particularly opposed to the spirit of his circular to his subordinates, which we lately published.

Extracts from a speech made by an agent of the Freedmen's Bureau, at Brenham, Texas, about the middle of October.

He told the negroes that "they had heretofore been contented because they were kept in ignorance of their rights, but that was at an end now." "They had rights; he had rights, and he would die for his." "White men wear arms to defend their rights; you should wear arms to defend yours." "You are as good as the white man, if anything a little better." [Immense applause.] "Get your duds from your former owners, if you can; if not, take them by force."

Many planters in Texas, especially on the Brazos and Colorado, are preparing to move their families to the large towns and cities before Christmas, fearing for their safety among the negroes, excited and disorganized by manumission and the injudicious influences of the Freedmen's Bureau.

From Washington.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 10.—It is understood among the radical republicans here that Mr. Sumner will make a studied demonstration against the President early in the session of Congress.

The prominent republican speakers in the campaign in New Jersey are here. They are General Wilson, General Kilpatrick, Horace Greely, Hiram Walpole and John S. Swift.

It is stated reliably that Mr. Cushing will thoroughly investigate the character and the amount of British claims for cotton seized by our Government.

Wirz's manly bearing upon the scaffold is the theme of all tongues. Those who heard or have read much of the trial deprecate the execution.

Our board of trade are in great spirits about the success of their movement.

PARDONS.

Applications for pardon are still coming in at the rate of a thousand per week. The President has signed nearly all the warrants issued from the State Department, and for some time hereafter will only attend to a few special cases, the near approach of Congress necessitating the transaction of more important business. It is understood that he designs pardoning all except about 1,000 of the civil and military leaders, whose fate will depend on the action of Congress. A general amnesty, excepting those cases, is not deemed expedient, as the announcement of a proscribed list would not only create dissatisfaction throughout the country, but still further embarrass the President by arraigning against his policy a powerful combination of the friends and the sympathizers of the excepted applicants.

JEFFERSON DAVIS.

The trial of Jefferson Davis continues to be a subject of much speculation, nothing being positively known concerning the time or place of his arraignment. The indications are, however, that he will soon be placed on trial in a civil court.

REVENUE FRAUDS.

Extensive frauds on the revenue have been discovered in the South and Southwest, principally in connection with fire-arms and whiskey. The subject is being closely investigated, and several parties have been arrested.

Strange Story---Extraordinary Offer by a Member of the Cabinet.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 10.—Mr Schade says he was called upon by several persons last night, as was also Father Boyle, who communicated information purporting to come from a member of the cabinet, to the effect that if Wirz would acknowledge that Jeff Davis was connected with the atrocities at Andersonville, his sentence should be commuted. Although Mr Schade did not place full confidence in the reports, he considered it to be his duty to relate what took place between himself and the prisoner at his last conference with him. Captain Wirz, in reply to a question, said, "Mr. Schade, you know I have always told you that I did not know anything about Jeff. Davis. He had no connection with me as to what was done at Andersonville, and if I knew he had, I would not become a traitor against him or any one else to save my life."

Important from South America---War Declared Between Spain and Chili.

NEW YORK, Nov. 10.—The steamer Ocean Queen, with Panama advices to the 31st of October, has arrived.

War has been declared between Spain and Chili, and all the ports of the latter have been declared by Admiral Paezja, commander of the Spanish squadron, blockaded since the 24th ult., ten days being allowed for the vessels then in port to clear.

The Chilian Congress authorizes a loan of twenty millions dollars, and the Executive is invested with unlimited power to raise troops, procure ships, &c.

The diplomatic corps in Chili protests emphatically against the mode of blockade, the Admiral proposing to maintain it by cruisers.

The panic occasioned by the sudden rupture is unprecedented in Chili.

Tribute of Respect.

At a regular meeting of Granite Lodge, No. 191, held in their Lodge room in Clayton, October 21, A. L. 865, A. D. 186, the following preamble and resolutions were unanimously adopted:

WHEREAS, It pleased the Supreme Architect of the universe to remove from our midst, our highly esteemed brother R. L. Bryant, on the 9th inst.; therefore,

Resolved, That it is with feelings of sorrow that we have heard of this sad bereavement, and that we do most humbly submit to this dispensation of his Divine will in thus taking our brother to that "undiscovered country, from whose bourne no traveller ever returns."

Resolved, That we deeply sympathize with the bereaved family and relatives of our deceased brother.

Resolved, That we wear the usual badge of mourning for thirty days.

Resolved, That a copy of these resolutions be presented to the family of the deceased.

Resolved, That a copy of these resolutions be sent to the Editor of the Sentinel with a request that he publish them.

NATIONAL THANKSGIVING DAY.

Proclamation by President Johnson.

By the President of the United States of America.

A PROCLAMATION.

Whereas it has pleased Almighty God during the year which is now coming to an end, to relieve our beloved country from the fearful scourge of civil war, and to permit us to secure the blessings of peace, unity and harmony with a great enlargement of civil liberty: And Whereas our Heavenly Father has during the present year graciously averted from us the calamities of foreign war, pestilence and famines, while our granaries are full of the fruits of an abundant season: And Whereas righteousness exalteth a nation, while sin is a reproach to any people:

Now, therefore, be it known, that I ANDREW JOHNSON, President of the United States, do hereby recommend to the people thereof, that they do set apart and observe the first Thursday of December next, as a day of National Thanksgiving to the Creator of the Universe for these deliverances and blessings. And I do further recommend, that on the occasion the whole people make confession of our national sins against His infinite goodness, and with one heart and one mind implore the Divine guidance in the ways of national virtue and holiness.

In testimony whereof, I have hereunto set my hand, and caused the seal of the United States to be affixed.

(L. S.) Done at the city of Washington, this twenty-eighth day of October, in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and sixty-five, and of the Independence of the United States of America the ninetieth.

Robert E. Lee.

["I enclose you an editorial taken from the Daily Telegraph of this city, containing such a happy tribute to General Lee, that I hope you will publish it in the Whig."—Extract from letter, dated London, October 21.]

At Lexington, in the State of Virginia, there is a College which bears the name of the most illustrious citizen ever born in the "Old Dominion," fertile as that pleasant land has been in heroes; nor could George Washington himself have wished that the College erected in his honor should have for President a worthier chief than the one who quietly entered upon his duties just a fortnight ago. The new President is still in the prime of manhood, though already his hair and beard are grey; he has been long accustomed to command; he is familiar with hardships as with fame,—has slept for months amid the woods of Virginia, and has crossed the Rappahannock northward at the head of a victorious army; he has been proved alike by good and evil fortune, and, whether when threatening the Federal Capitol or when surrendering his sword to a Federal captain, he has ever borne himself as he seemed a man noble alike by ancestry and by nature. The descendant of "Light Horse Harry" has doffed the grey uniform for the garb of a peaceful professor; nor can we own that the change is a degradation, even for Robert Lee. There is a difference in the mode of action, but no alteration in the object, which is simply to render the best service he can to his native State. To that single aim he has never once been unfaithful; and he will still pursue it, we may rest assured, with the old high enthusiasm, tempered by a cautious brain. Throughout the war nothing was more remarkable than Lee's personal influence—the manner in which he impressed every one who approached him. That men with Jackson's purity and earnestness, or with the debonaire and graceful valor of Stuart, should appreciate the illustrious qualities of their leader, was only natural; but even the humblest soldiers in the ranks felt, though they might not have been able to express, the moral power which Lee exerted. The war was, in all conscience, sanguinary enough; but there would have been a very carnival of carnage, a devilish out-break of all man's fiercest passions, had the Southern leaders been of different temper. Gallantly as the Confederates fought, we must never forget that their armies were often composed of somewhat questionable raw material; that the volunteers, with all the instinct of bravery which seldom deserts a dominant class, had likewise many of the vices which are inevitably engendered by the possession of arbitrary and lawless power. Accustomed to the unchecked license of authority, the slaveholders might perchance have been ready enough to give the war a character of internecine hatred; and it was eminently due to Robert Lee that the courtesies and humanities of civilized warfare were, on the whole, observed. The gentle nature of the man never degenerated into weakness; with a high hand he could restrain excesses, and admirably did he exercise his power. There are no purer pages in the history of the civil war than those which relate to his invasion of Maryland and Pennsylvania, at a time when the temper of the Southern people was sorely tried. Such qualities as he displayed could not fail, in the long run, to win the regard of a manly and affectionate people; and whilst we find that he was loved like a father by all those who shared his immediate perils, we have not yet forgotten that when the victorious veterans of the North were marching home through Richmond, they burst into a splendid shout of enthusiasm as they recognized, gravely contemplating them from a curtained window, the familiar form and face of Robert Lee.

"The old order changes, giving place to new, and God fulfills himself in many ways." To teach young lads their classics and mathematics may seem but a poor occupation for one whose word was lately the supreme law for a hundred thousand fighting men; and yet there need be no sense of humiliation involved in the deliberate acceptance of such employment. The "new order" is that of peace; for a time, the finest thing that Lee could do was to set an example of valor and virtue to the whole manhood of the South; but not less pure is the glory of one who by honest and patient labor prepares the young for that longer conflict which fills the whole length and breadth of human life.—Our age, to quote the French phrase, is "fertile in emotions," is swift and sudden in its changes. The ruler of yesterday is the exile of to-day. The exile of to-day may be the ruler of to-morrow. Many a bright sword is in its scabbard besides that of the great Virginian. Only a few weeks ago the flaneurs of Paris could gaze on one whom Victor Hugo called "a spectre in a white burnous"—on one who for years fought after the old Numidian fashion against Bugeaud and Budeau, against Cavaignec, Pelissier and Lamoriciere; and now, the survivor of them all, Abd-el-Kader journeys slowly homeward to Damascus. In a Russian city far within the heart of the mighty empire whose power he withstood for nearly thirty years, quietly lives an old grey-bearded, weak-eyed man, against whom, when he held possession of his mountain fastnesses, Grabbe and Woronzoff vainly hurled their disciplined battalions; and so calm is now the order of his life that only with a strange thrill of wonder does the traveller hear that he has indeed seen Schamyl the Circassian. The hero of Rome, Varese, and Marsala limps about along the rocky pathways of Caprera. What English tourist on the Continent who casually meets George Klapka remembers immediately the exploits of the man who held Comorn against the Austrain and once sallied forth as far as Raab on the road to Vienna itself? The actions of these leaders are already passing into history, and may surely be viewed with historic impartiality and calm. Beaten like them, Lee serenely accepts the altered conditions of his life. Had he consulted a poor and outworn feeling of "personal dignity," he would have left the country in which he had held command so absolute, and suffered a discomfiture so overwhelming. By men of all parties in Europe he would have been hailed with acclamation; he would have found it impossible to remain in privacy; he would have felt again the breath of popular applause—but to what good end? The welcome must needs have been misinterpreted across the Atlantic, and have tended, however untairly, to excite an angry feeling. Lee as an exile, as a refugee, would have been a living protest against the Government which proscribed him; President of a College in Virginia, he lends the aid of his illustrious name to the good work of reconciliation.

Marvellous, indeed, despite the troubles which remain, is the spectacle presented by America after her mighty struggle. The shiftiest and most dexterous of races, if not the strongest, our Yankee friends are falling, as if by some natural law of gravitation, into their proper places; and there is something really wonderful in their versatility.—The general, telling his wife to take care of his epaulettes, quietly turns lawyer or merchant; the soldier goes back to the farm or the loom; and two mighty armies have hitherto scarcely shown a sign of disorder during the trying time of disbandment. The explanation of all this must not be sought in "institutions" or "constitutions," but in those grand natural capacities of the land itself, which no labor or wit of man created, which no violence of man could altogether destroy. In that immense continent there is room for all; and no one with any real capacity has long to wait before he finds his place. Few other countries could have sustained the recent contest without utter ruin; in America the wounds are healing almost before the swords are sheathed. Nor let us forget, as we contemplate the significant scene of generals devoting themselves to civil pursuits, that the national character must have been potently affected by the events of the last five years. Many of life's most important lessons can only be learnt through the stern discipline of battle; and a people which had never passed through the lurid cloud of desolation and of death might indeed have rioted in all the insolent extravagance of material prosperity, but would never have been, in the high meaning of the term, a nation. It is unphilosophical to believe that the American character has been radically altered; it is not less unphilosophical to assume that it has not been greatly modified. The old forms of action the old political organizations, the old party names, may yet survive; but a new spirit has been breathed into them all. On the race as on the individual the charm has worked, and we shall probably, for the future, find a graver and more serious tone in the countrymen of that jesting President who by sheer honesty of meaning, had acquired a statesman's reputation when he perished by a martyr's death, and of that Southern tailor from Tennessee, who has already approved himself a skilful and a resolute ruler. Lee's nature underwent no change; it simply retains its serene nobility. For the rest, "let the dead bury their dead." Our business is with the present and the future. The signs of war, though they cannot utterly disappear, may fade away with singular rapidity in that young land, where all things grow so swiftly, from corn and maize up to men and women. The traveler in the prairies of the West, camping amidst the long luxuriant grass, may almost smile, as the guide tells him how on that very spot the Indians fought—how he might yet find traces of the conflict in rusty tomahawk and in broken bow. It was not a long time ago; but meanwhile the land is very rich, and the grass is very green.

American Union Commission.

Inquiry is often made of the Agent of the American Union Commission in this State respecting the Constitution and operations of that Society. The following general statement on the subject, may be of interest to those who are not personally acquainted with the work:

It consists of a Central Commission, having its office in New York, with branches already organized in Boston, Baltimore, Chicago, Cincinnati, Nashville, Richmond and other points. In its origin it had the sanction of President Lincoln; it now enjoys the cordial approbation of President Johnson; it receives from the War Department transportation and other facilities so far as is consistent with the public service; and in providing for refugees, it is in hearty co-operation with the Bureau for Refugees and Freedmen, who are still, as heretofore, dependent on voluntary contributions, through benevolent societies, for needful assistance. Its object is defined by the following fundamental article of its Constitution:

"The American Union Commission is constituted for the purpose of aiding and co-operating with the people of those portions of the United States which have been desolated and impoverished by the war, in the restoration of their civil and social condition, upon the basis of industry, education, freedom and Christian morality."

Its first work evidently was to relieve immediate want by distributing food, clothing, &c.—During the past twelve months it has given away to the very needy over a hundred thousand dollars worth, thus enabling many to resume the labors of peace more quickly, and probably, saving not a few lives, especially of children and the sick. To avoid expense it has often availed itself of the services of delegates of the Christian Commission, but on the disbanding of that body it has sent out its own agents.

It aims also to encourage healthy immigration into this portion of the country. To this end, information is desired as to the wants of any part of the State, and inducements there offered to settle. If in any community there is need of a farmer, a blacksmith, a mechanic, a merchant, a teacher, or any professional man, it would be a favor if some person would report the facts fully to me, and I shall take pleasure in laying them before parties who think of moving their homes. The Commission has special advantages through its branches for recommending well-qualified teachers in any other department. School committees in different States are availing themselves of its services.

My own long employment as a teacher gives me a special interest in the work of education. Here in Raleigh the free schools have been closed for some time, and many of the leading citizens have felt that it was not possible to support one except by contribution from abroad. To partly meet the existing want, and give every one a chance to learn reading, at least an arrangement has been made with Mr. O. R. Burchard, who is known to the Commission, as a gentleman well qualified to teach both in the English studies, and Classics, to instruct free of charge for one hour daily, all who apply. The hour fixed at present is 3, P. M., so as not to interfere with his regular school, and to accommodate those children whose services are needed at home most of the day. It is not expected, by any means, to take this work out of the hands of the people, but it is hoped that as affairs become settled, a good public school will soon be established by the city if not by the State.

The work of the Union Commission is not conducted in the interest of any denomination or political party; it invites the co operation of all. And while the encouragement of education and immigration is now its prominent work, it will be ready to co operate with the people in other ways as experience shall indicate.

As evidence of the esteem felt for the Commission, the following extracts are published from a letter of introduction by Gov. Holden, Rev. C. H. Wiley and others.

"I take pleasure in saying that I am acquainted with Rev. Fisk P. Brewer, the Agent of the "American Union Commission" in this State, and that I regard his work as eminently entitled to the approval and aid of our people generally."

W. W. HOLDEN.

"I heartily join in the above commendations of the enterprise in which Mr. Brewer is engaged, and hope he will meet with the co-operation of our people."

FACTS TO BE CONSIDERED.

THERE ARE BUT FEW SUBJECTS PRESENTED to the mind of man upon which there are not a great variety of opinions, and about which there are not protracted discussions. But there are a few facts so well established, and so uncontrovertible that they are universally assented to. One is that all men now living, will soon be called upon to gather up their feet and depart to the land of the dead. "One generation goeth, and another cometh, and we have no abiding city here," is a matter about which there is no dispute. Another is, "Of that day, and of that hour, knoweth no man." Whether death cometh at the twelfth hour or at the cock crowing, is of equal uncertainty to all.

Another is, that when wife and children gather around us, to take their final leave, in that sad circle centers all our earthly interest. The last earthly rational thought of Husband and Father, is Wife and Children (if worthy of sustaining such endearing relations.) Another is, no man living knows what may be the result of his efforts to secure a competence for his family. "Riches take to themselves wings and fly away," has been realized by how many? adverse winds of to-morrow, may take the place of to-day's prosperous gales; under currents which the most penetrating eye cannot see, or the strongest arm control, may in an evil hour sweep away the hard earnings of years. Another is, no man ever has, or ever can as unto more sacred obligations, than Husband and Father. Hence it is said, that he that will not provide for his own household is worse than an infidel.

Now, what Husband and Father is there battling with the difficulties of life, knowing as he must, that uncertainties attend every effort, and wait upon every enterprise, that he has not with earnest voice, and anxious heart, called to the future to unlock its buried graves and reveal to him the result of this or that undertaking. But the only voice that comes from that land of silence, is, "Verily, thou knowest not what shall be on the morrow."

Such are some of the few facts about which there is no controversy, and such are some of the uncertainties that ever have, and ever will gather around our pathway through life, and which have in generations past, and will in generations to come trouble and oppress the Husband and Father. Now in view of these facts, responsibilities, and uncertainties, it is for you to judge and decide upon the propriety, necessity, and duty, of making a policy on your life, for the benefit of your family. Will it not relieve you of your present anxiety to know that a certain portion of the fruits of you labors are secured to that family? Remember that whatever you pay for a life policy is paid to them. The stranger intermeddleth not with that.

Remember also, that $5000 paid to them in that day when the heart and flesh shall fail you, will be more to them, than $10,000 while you are here to provide for them. Also remember, that the amount for which you are insured will not be diminished in the settling of your estate, and that from generation to generation Life Insurance has answered the end for which it was ordained as fully, so say to the least, as any institution of man's creation, and that its primary object was, and still is, to secure the family against the stern realities of want, and to relieve from corroding anxiety those who have assumed family responsibilities.

Do you say "I know it would be wise in me to take out a policy and I intend to do so soon; but now I want to use all my funds in my business." Friend if it is wisdom in you to insure at all, this folly to defer it, to-morrow is to-day's thief. "Boast not thyself of to-morrow," "Sufficient unto the day is the evil thereof." "Procrastination is the thief of time."

The Aetna Life Insurance Company offers you all the inducements to insure that can be found in any company. Its assets are over a million and a half. It has a surplus of $300,000 over and above what it is required to insure all its policies. Its monthly receipts are over $150,000. And it is issuing monthly early 1000 policies. Its rates for insurance are as reasonable as those of any other well established responsible company. It is paying as large dividends to its policy holders as any other Company. Its officers are competent business men. Its assets, are as permanently and as safely invested as any other company can invest theirs, and from which as good interest is being received. It pays its losses as promptly, is as particular in the character of its risks, and as yet it is a stranger to litigation.
